TO OUR FLORIST CUSTOMERS

The Templin-Bradley Co.

Florist Wholesale Department

5700 Detroit Ave., Cleveland, O.

To Our Customer Friends,
Everywhere in the U.S.A.:

Every Florist with whom I have talked about the outlook for 1942 has pointed out two problems to me. The first, how to make room for growing enough stock to fill the demand that is sure to come in 1942. The second, what to grow to replace their former stocks of lilies, hyacinths and tulips, as well as many flowering annuals that are now unobtainable because the seed was only produced in Europe.

They all point out that with very high wages and the curbing of installment buying, folks will be able to indulge in the purchase of flowers to a greater extent than they could since the depression started. The farther the great mass of the people get from merely existing, the more this demand for fine flowers will increase.

In this catalog, I offer you the best bred strains of fine flower seeds both for use in the greenhouse and for any outdoor growing you do. Also vegetable seeds of exceptional quality. I know all of these will make money for you if you will sow them, because they will produce fine plants for you.

May I suggest that you go over your requirements immediately, for the seeds you wish to sow now as well as for later sowing. I ask this because while we have a reasonable stock of every item we offer in this catalog, still there is no surplus seed available in the hands of the producers and when this stock is sold out, no more will be available until after the harvest of 1942, which will be too late to do you any good in this year's business.

Your attention is called to the fact that we have quite a number of stocks of seed of which we have not enough on hand to justify listing in a catalog such as this that goes from coast to coast to all of our customers. If there are any varieties you need that are not listed, drop me a line, name the varieties and how much you will need and I will let you know if we have it or not and quote you.

I shall be looking forward to receiving your order and we will all do our part here to give you not only the quality, but the service you like to have. Here are our best wishes for a good selling year in 1942. You deserve it.

Floyd Bradley
President.

California Giant, "Daffodil" Zinnia

Profitable Cut Flowers

Our sales on Zinnias have shown a remarkable increase over the past two years, indicating, we believe, that more florists are using them for outdoor cut flowers and as a bench crop item under glass during the early spring months.

Consecutive sowings of the Dahlia Flowered, California Giant and the Dwarf Double or Pumila Elegans types in the field, produce an abundance of cut flower material for which there has been a good market.

The Dahlia Flowered or California Giant types do splendidly under glass during the early Spring months. The plants are set close in the benches and grown one flower to each stem.

California Giant Zinnias

A newly developed type which carries the same robust habit as the Dahlia Flowered type. PLANT BANDS

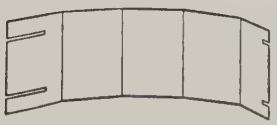
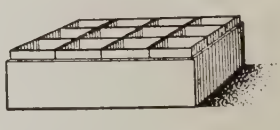
Do A Better Job of Growing Plants
Than Clay Pots Do





EASILY SET UP. Bands come to you packed flat. Each band is scored for easy folding and the ends are slotted as shown in the cut. When folded and these slots interlocked the band is held firmly together and in shape. We have seen no other bands that can be set up so easily and rapidly and that hold their shape so well until filled as do these bands. No stapling or tacking is necessary.

BETTER FOR THE PLANT. Because of the accurate cutting of these bands and their shapeliness they fit snugly together in the flats or on the bench and maintain a uniform moisture condition that is impossible with clay pots. Even when spaced on the bench they do not dry out as rapidly as clay pots. The added amount of soil in the band over the amount in an equal sized round pot gives the plants much more root area and promotes a greater development.

EASILY HANDLED. Much time and labor is saved when handling plants from the flats if they are in bands. The soil does not crumble from the roots of those taken out nor do you have to continually add more soil to the flat to cover the roots exposed on the plants left in the flat. No plants are lost from careless handling when rushed, and remaining plants always look fresh and attractive.

MAKE MORE SATISFIED CUSTOMERS. When in bands the plants reach the buyers home in much better condition because the outside roots are not dried out and dead. They can be moistened by the buyer before setting without washing the soil from the roots. The bands are simply unwrapped from the plant and the plants set into the garden without any check in their growth.
